

Team France: Impossible is nothing!

Written by Yu Han Liu

Before the semi-final, no one ever thought of France claiming victory over China. Not that Team France is less competitive, but because China has been dominating. However, France had proved everyone wrong with its exceptional performance against China in semi-final, a dramatic come-from-behind triumph.

At the beginning of the game, the two French double pairs were outplayed. "We didn't think it is possible at first, but after he (the first singles player) won the third set, we started to hope we can win," said the French players. The winning of the critical set boosted the morale of these French players. The stadium resounded with chants, while teams from other countries also came to root for them. "It's crazy. There was a big group of supporters."

The players were excited about the outcome. They said that they were going to visit around Taipei, forget about badminton for one day so as to relax their minds and bodies, and most importantly, hope for the best in the final against Chinese Taipei.

Will Team France defeat its strong rival and clinch yet another outstanding victory? We'll see.
